Most of our lives we're like Jacob, we live in a tent and we really only let certain people in and we pay rent to the tune of these grains of sand that pass through the fingers in my hand you can't make a dent

Bm7 Am7 Dmaj7 Cmaj7

So what if I owned this plot of land, and the tent grew bigger and bigger just like my plans, does that make my situation any better the clock keeps ticking I can't seem to comprehend like everything I own, my body's on loan and the rent that I pay to my body sets the tone for quality of lifestyle I live when I put down my god damn phone.

Bm7 Am7 Dmaj7 Cmaj7

I wrestle with this phone all the time like its an angel, this painkillers got me feeling like my energy is drained fill me up with that sweet dopamine still I can't shake that thing that's somewhere in the back of my brain

C C*

I think that God dwells in my cell phone, when it helps me feel like I'm not alone. And the people that I love are far away but I know I can call them any day, it feels like home.
